ELECTION FOR GOVERNOR.

At a special meeting of the Federal Conferees of the county of Philadelphia, held at Elliott's Hotel, on Friday the 5th inst. for the purpose of adopting such measures as should be deemed proper in relation to the approaching election for Governor.

WM. MILNOR, Esq. in the chair, and Daniel B. Lippard, Sec'ry.

The object of the meeting having been stated, it was

1. Resolved, That the office of Governour in this Commonwealth, is one of such extensive power and patronage, that every freeman in it ought to feel it a duty to exercise his right of suffrage at an election for this office, in order that a judicious choice may be made and the majority of the citizens of the whole community may decide upon the candidate.

2. Resolved, That party names and party rancour have been employed with so much art and such unfortunate success as to supersede, to a most alarming extent, the principles of the government and to defeat its proposed ends, that thereby the rule has been placed in the hands of obscure, unworthy and selfish men, the charities and decencies of social intercourse have been prevented, and the minds of good and deserving men have been poisoned against each other to the great injury of our republican institutions; and that approving the course of conduct proposed to be pursued by the present chief magistrate of the U. States, we will cheerfully second his patriotic efforts, in supporting principles instead of men and harmonizing the members of the great American family and directing their efforts to the promotion of the public welfare instead of party objects.

3. Resolved, That we cannot and ought not to be indifferent spectators of the present contest in Pennsylvania for the office of Governor; that as citizens interested in the publick welfare, and having a common stake in the community, we are bound to take a part; and as the heads of families we owe it, to our children to contribute to the perpetuation of the rich inheritance of the revolution, and as there are but two candidates offered to our acceptance, common reason points out to us the propriety of selecting the best; we therefore unhesitatingly declare our preference for Gen. Joseph Heister.

Inasmuch as he is entitled to our gratitude and our confidence for having risked his fortune and his life to establish the right of self government, and the liberty and independence of this country.

Inasmuch as he is of pure and unblemished character, of great political experience, and not of an intolerant & persecuting disposition, a republican in practice as well as principle, willing to permit others to enjoy the right he claims of thinking and acting for themselves.

Inasmuch as he having been wickedly and maliciously traduced, we owe it to justice to sustain him against persecution and the foulest detraction.

Inasmuch as the office has sought him & not he the office, exhibiting thereby an evidence of disinterestedness, and a mind devoid of ambition, affording a strong pledge of an upright administration.

Inasmuch as his opponent Wm. Findlay has been selected through the intrigues of office holders who aim at domination over the people to perpetuate themselves in office.

And inasmuch as to make him Governor would stifle all enquiry into his administration of the Treasury, and there are strong causes for belief, that there has been gross misconduct and violation of law and duty in that office.

Resolved, That the foul aspersions cast upon the Federal Party by the friends of William Findlay, at the packed caucus at Harrisburgh and elsewhere, after the passions of party had apparently in a great degree subsided, afford strong evidence of the turpitude of their cause, and insecurity which men who differ from them, would have under such an administration.

Resolved, That for the reasons expressed in the foregoing, resolutions, we earnestly recommend General Joseph Heister, to the Federal Republicans, of the county of Philadelphia, to be supported at the ensuing election, as a candidate for the office of Governor of this Commonwealth.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting signed by the Chairman and Secretary, be published in all the papers, friendly to the election of General Heister.

WILLIAM MILNOR, Chairman.
DANIEL B. LIPPARD, Sec'ry.

FOREIGN ARTICLES.

LIVERPOOL, July 21.

FIELD OF WATERLOO.

The following particulars have been communicated by a person of this town, just returned from a tour through the Netherlands:

The village of Waterloo and its environs are at this moment, perhaps, more interesting to an English visitor, than at any period since the battle. The most affecting testimonials to the memory of different illustrious individuals who fell in that terrible conflict meet the eye in almost every direction. The interior of the church at Waterloo, a small but very neat structure, is nearly covered with monuments to the memory of British officers. All these are written in such a strain of manly and modest simplicity, and some of them under circumstances of such affecting tenderness, that every English reader, whilst his heart is touched with the deepest sympathy, must feel himself elated in belonging to a country which has produced instances of such unparalleled heroism.

In the church-yard, among many other monuments, appears the mausoleum of the Marquis of Anglesea's leg, with an inscription that reflects the highest honor on that distinguished nobleman.

To the wall of La Haye Sainte, next the high road, is affixed a plain monument, with a short, but most sublime and touching inscription, to the honor of those officers of the German Legion who fell in the arduous task of defending this farm against an entire division of the French army. It is erected by the surviving officers of that distinguished regiment to the memory of their departed brethren.

The celebrated chateau of Hougoumont remains in the state in which it was left after the battle—a heap of ruins. The marks of the shot still remain on the trees and garden wall, where the English guards fought with such persevering and unsubdued energy.

A splendid monument is now erecting in the open field, on the very spot where the hero fell, to the memory of Sir Alexander Gordon, of whom such distinguished mention was made in the House of Commons and by the Duke of Wellington. The inscription, like all the others, is admirably written, states that it is dedicated to the memory of the deceased, by his seven surviving brothers and sisters. The same inscription appears in the French language on the opposite side of the pedestal.

But of all the testimonials which have been erected on this most interesting occasion, there is none more deeply affecting than a plain black stone, which appears in the centre of the church at Waterloo, the inscription of which is written in Latin, and signed Henry Cuppage; after stating, that the conduct and gallantry of the deceased had been such as to attract the notice even of their great Commander-in-Chief, it concludes with these affecting expressions:—"His only surviving brother, who fought by his side during that long and arduous day, and at night received his last breath whilst supporting him in his arms, has erected this simple stone to the memory of one who was endeared to him by the strongest ties that can bind two human beings to each other."

It is painful to conclude this account with an instance of the behaviour of the ungrateful Belgians on a late occasion, which can never be forgotten. The inhabitants of Brussels and its neighbourhood, including many distinguished personages, public functionaries, &c. celebrated the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo on the 13th ult. by a splended fete champetre given on the field itself. The Brussels papers of the following day give a minute account of this brilliant commemoration, with all the toasts, speeches, &c. which were delivered on so striking an occasion.—Would it be believed, that neither the name of the Duke of Wellington nor the English army is once mentioned in the narration?

TRIAL OF A DUMB AND DEAF WOMAN.

A singular event has occurred before a Judicial Court in Scotland; in the indictment of one Jean Bruce, a deaf and dumb woman, for the murder of her child, by throwing it over the bridge of Glasgow.—Her counsel objected to her being put on trial, as she could not plead; and as he was totally unable to get any information from her to conduct her defence; & as, having received no education, she was as incapable, as a child of six months old, of distinguishing between right and wrong. Many witnesses were examined; by whom it was testified on one side, that she was a woman of strong powers of mind; that she possessed the power of consciousness to a certain degree; appeared to have a strong natural affection for her (three) children; persisted by signs, that the child accidentally fell from the parapet of the bridge, while she was attending to another child, and manifested the most indignant feelings when charged with having wilfully killed it, and seemed sensible that punishment would follow the commission of a crime. On the other hand, it was the opinion of witnesses, (including teachers in the deaf and dumb institution,) that she was incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong: that she was not conscious of having done any thing wrong in regard to the child, & altogether unable to plead guilty or not guilty. The Court were unanimously of opinion that this novel and important question, of which no precedent appeared in the records of the country, deserved grave consideration, and every information the Counsel on each side could procure and furnish.

A letter from an Officer at St. Helena, dated, the 15th of May, says—"Bonaparte begins to walk out a little; we therefore suppose he is getting the better of his sulky fit.—He does not look so well as he did, which, as it may be imagined, is owing to his keeping so much within doors. The 53d regiment is healthy, but the 56th (2d bat.) has had extensive sickness."

The Baroness de Stael Holstein, daughter of the celebrated Neckar, died on the 15th of July, in the 50th year of her age. She has left a son and daughter, the latter is married to the Duke de Broglie a peer of France.

Hutchinson's History of Massachusetts, has the following passage:

"The Arabella arrived at Salem, from England, on the 12th of June, 1630. The common people immediately went ashore and regaled themselves with Strawberries, which are very fine in America, and were then in perfection.—This gave them a favorable idea of the produce of the country but the gentlemen met with enough to fill them with concern. The first news they had was of a general conspiracy, a few months before, of all the Indians as far as Naraganset, to extirpate the English. Eighty persons out of about three hundred, had died in the colony the winter before, and many of those that remained were in a sick, weakly coudition: there was not corn enough to last above a fortnight, and all other provisions were very scant." To those who have the means of correct information of our present condition, the preceding presents a striking and pleasing contrast. In the short period of 187 years, the wretched handful of adventurers described by Hutchinson has become a great nation, having a population of more than eight millions,—thirty or forty colleges of high respectability, with academies and schools unnumbered, scattered over the vast regions from Maine to Western Louisiana, and from the Atlantic to the Missouri; a commerce diffused over all oceans of the globe, bearing a flag which veteran nations are compelled to respect—Such are a few of the astonishing effects of LIGHT and LIBERTY! The prophecy of Daniel is rapidly fulfilling. "Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased."

SOLOMON & QUEEN SHEBA.

The following well-pointed story is taken by D'Israeli from the Talmud.

The power of Solomon had spread his wisdom to the remotest parts of the known world. Queen Sheba, attracted by the splendour of his reputation, visited this poetical king at his own court; there, one day to exercise the sagacity of the monarch, Sheba presented herself at the foot of the throne; in each hand she held a wreath of flowers, one composed of natural, the other of artificial flowers. Art, in the labour of the mimic wreath, had exquisitely emulated the lively hues of nature; so that at the distance it was held by the Queen for the inspection of the King, it was deemed impossible for him to decide, as her question imported, which wreath was the production of nature, and which the work of art. The sagacity of Solomon seemed perplexed; yet to be vanquished, though in a trifle, by a trifling woman, irritated his pride. The son of David, he who had written treatises on the vegetable productions "from the cedar to the hyssop," to acknowledge himself outwitted by a woman, with shreds of paper and glazed paintings! The honour of the monarch's reputation for divine sagacity seemed diminished; and the whole Jewish Court looked solemn and melancholy. At length an expedient presented itself to the King; and it must be confessed worthy of the natural philosopher. Observing a cluster of bees hovering about a window, he commanded that it should be opened; it was opened—the bees rushed into the court and alighted immediately on one of the wreaths, while not a single one fixed on the other. The baffled Sheba had one more reason to be astonished at the wisdom of Solomon.

Such is the story. Mr. D'Israeli thus turns its moral. "This would make a pretty poetical tale. It would yield an elegant description, and a pleasing moral; that the bee only rests on the natural beauties, and never fixes on the painted flowers, however inimitably the colours may be laid on. Applied to the ladies this would give it pungency."

PITTSBURGH.

PUBLIC MEETING.

At a large and respectable meeting of the citizens of Pittsburgh, friendly to the election of General JOSEPH HEISTER, and an independent nomination, convened, pursuant to public notice, at the house of John M'Clintock, on Saturday, the 13th day of September, for the purpose of adopting such measures as might be considered conducive to the public good, at the ensuing election, JAMES LEA, was chosen chairman, and JOHN SPEAR, and SILAS ENGLES, appointed Secretaries.

The following resolutions were read and adopted:

Resolved, That we solemnly protest against the nomination of any person whatever for the office of Governor by a Legislative caucus; and that we believe such a nomination, when announced as authoritative, to be a most dangerous attempt to prostrate the rights of the people.

Resolved, That it is highly inexpedient to place any man in the Governor's chair, who has made improper uses of the public money; whose own confession, that he blended his private money transactions with those of the public, proves an unwarrantable breach of the constitution, and want of stability as a public officer; and assures us, that no confidence can be placed in his future promises or obligations.

Resolved, That we will support General JOSEPH HEISTER, as a man whose early feelings in the field, and in the prison ships at York, and whose uniform attachment to our republican system of government, are satisfactory guarantees of his future conduct.

Resolved, That we deem unworthy of our notice, the slanders and falsehoods circulated against Mr. Heister by his enemies; that we consider them but the desperate efforts of the upholders of the caucus candidate; and that no threats or proscriptions shall deter us from the free exercise of our constitutional rights and privileges.

Resolved, That we will use every fair and honorable exertion in support of the following ticket, and that the same be recommended for the consideration of our fellow-citizens:——

For GOVERNOR,
Gen. JOSEPH HEISTER.

SENATE,
JOHN GILMORE, of Butler.

ASSEMBLY,
WILLIAM WILKINS,
JOHN ROBINSON, of Elizabeth township
Col. JOHN ROSS, (St. Clair)
WILLIAM AYRES, of Butler.

COMMISSIONER,
WILLIAM M'CANDLES,

AUDITOR.
JOHN NEEL.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the "Pittsburgh Mercury,' 'Commonwealth,' and 'Pittsburgh Gazette.'

JAMES LEA, Chairman.

ATTEST,
JOHN SPEAR, } Secretaries.
SILAS ENGLES, }

By a gentleman just arrived here from New-Orleans, via. river Ouachitta, we are informed that a formidable coalition of Indian tribes have assembled at the Cherokee villages on the Arkansas, consisting of Cherokees, Chactaws, Shawanoes, and Delawares from the east side of the Mississippi, and Caddo's, Coshattes, Tankawahs, Comanches and the Cherokees of the Arkansas; for the purpose of waging war against the Osages. The Coshattes, Tankawahs and Caddo's of Red river, and the Cherokees of the Arkansas, complain that the Osages are perpetually sending strong war parties into their country, killing small hunting bands of their people, and driving off their horses. Our informant travelled part of the distance between the Ouachitta and Arkansas rivers with a large party, going on to join the confederate troops.—They had six field pieces with several Negroes and half breeds, who learned the use of artillery under Gen. Jackson last war. They said they were informed that the Osages had built forts, to which they intended to retreat after the general battle, which it is thought will be fought near Earle's salt works on the Arkansas, on that cluster of streams called the Six-Bulls, and above the boundary line lately run between the interior counties of this territory and the Osage country.

The Osages are aware of the intended attack, but cannot believe they will be met by such a formidable force.

As they always fight their pitched battles on horse back, it is probable they will be defeated in that broken country they have chosen for the combat.

St. Louis Gazette.

From West Point.—We learn (says the Columbian) that gen. Swift has put captain Partridge under arrest. The military school is resumed, and instruction proceeds with regularity and tranquility.

Some opinion may be formed of the interest which literature excites in the United States from the fact, that they contain at least forty Colleges, some of them richly endowed, and employing in the service of science the most distinguished scholars of the country.

THE SEA SERPENT.

Boston, September 4.

The Salem Gazette of yesterday, mentions that the Leviathan was again seen on Friday near Eastern Point.

We are assured, that on Friday last about 4 o'clock, P. M. the master of a Beverly boat, on his return from this town, saw an object floating on the water, in the vicinity of Half Way Rock,* which he at first took to be a large spar, but approaching it, he found it animated; and has no doubt it was the Sea Serpent seen off Cape Ann.

Half way between Boston and Cape Ann.*

"READ, PAUSE....AND REFLECT."

I the subscriber do hereby certify, that I was a soldier in the revolutionary service, and fought the battles of our country, assisted to procure the liberty we now enjoy—and in consequence of my sufferings (having now become old, feeble and unable to support myself and family) I applied to the Legislature for a pension, which was granted to me, the sum of forty dollars annually. Pursuant to an act of the Assembly I was entitled to draw from the state treasury 20 dollars every six months—and I do certify, that in August last I drew the sum of 20 dollars, in western bank notes which at that time was 10 per cent. below par—and in consequence of the western paper, I was obliged to allow the above discount of 10 per cent. before I could buy necessaries for my family.

Witness my hand, at Reading, this 30th day of August 1817.

CHRISTIAN MILLER.

We the subscribers do hereby certify, that we have been personally acquainted with Christian Miller, the subcriber to the above certificate, for upwards of 20 years—that he is an old revolutionary soldier—a poor, but honest and industrious man; that by his industrious habits he has raised a numerous family, and by his uniform upright deportment, has deservingly acquired a good character, and the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens—that he is a man of strict veracity, and we believe his representations to be entitled to the entire credit of his fellow citizens.

HONEY DEW—Has been discovered upon the leaves of the Elm, and other vegetable verdure, in this vicinity. In the evening and morning it is found most plentifully, and is even perceived dropping from the leaves of the trees. It is of a viscid and mucilaginous consistence, and is probably soluble in water, appears to have no smell, but has a sweet taste not dissimilar to honey. We do not know how this phenomenon is explained, but are inclined to be of the opinion that the Honey Dew is a vegetable exhalation, probably never discoverable, except in the summer months, when the earth is covered with the heaviest and the richest verdure. Its appearance, therefore, at this time, is undoubtedly owing to the unusually rapid progress of vegetation. The saccharine juice of vegetables may from its redundance, exhale or unite with the atmosphere, and afterwards distil upon the same vegetable. Our land, therefore, literally "flows with honey."

SPAIN AND RUSSIA.

The most important information received by the Julius Caesar, arrived at New-York on Tuesday last from Liverpool, is the report of the league entered into by Russia, to assist Spain in the subjection of her revolted colonies in South America, and that she has engaged to support the cause of Ferdinand on this continent, with a squadron including six ships of the line, and an army of from 15 to 20,000 men. This pledge on the part of Russia is said to have been made "in consideration of the cession of old and New California, the island of Minorca," and the resignation of certain commercial advantages to her by Spain.

INUNDATIONS IN SWITZERLAND.

Many parts of Europe, as well as the U. States, have suffered greatly during the present season, from heavy and drenching rains. Accounts from Switzerland, dated early in July, state that, in consequence of the powerful and continued rains, the Lake of Constance had overflowed both of its banks, and in some places to a great depth. "In some districts," says one account, "only the roofs of the houses are visible, and the population have sought refuge in Marienberg. In the City of Constance itself, the Lake has spread into the streets. In the Grisons, the Rhine and the Landquart, have furiously burst their bands; and in the Rinthal, the country is covered with water."

IMPORTATION OF SLAVES.

The Havana Diary, contains an official return of the slaves imported into that port, from December 1, 1816, to July 31, 1817—a period of eight months.—According to this statement, the whole number amounts to eleven thousand one hundred and sixty one.

A GREAT MAN.

A certain editor of a weekly paper in a neighboring city, informs the public that it was his opinion, the president of the United States wished to pursue unmolested the objects of his tour, and disapproving as he, the editor, did of so much parade and shew as had beeen exhibited, and valuing the public service more than his own or the presidents personal gratification says, "I carefully kept myself from every place where it might be expected to meet him during his stay in Baltimore." This forcibly reminds of the fly upon the Bullock's horn, who fearing his weight would be burthensome to the sturdy animal, kindly offered to take himself off.—[Nat. Reg.

FOR THE GAZETTE.

DRAMATICUS.

On Monday, 1st inst. the admirers of the drama, had a delectable treat in the representation of Shakespeare's highly celebrated tragedy, of the "Merchant of Venice." Of the unrivalled talents of Mrs. Entwisle it is almost unnecessary to speak. There is a dignity in this lady added to the correctness of her pronunciation, that has long since left her no competitor on this side of the Atlantic, and she may be justly styled the Siddons of America.

But the novelty of the evening was the assumption by Mr. Entwisle, of what is generally considered one of the most difficult characters in the whole range of theatrical amusements, viz—'Shylock,' and in the able personification of which he did himself infinite honor, and proves that he possesses in an eminent degree that versatility of talent so essential to constitute a good performer. If we were to express an opinion in what part he particularly excelled, it was in the scene, where all the contending passions that agitate the human breast, were admirably portrayed, his sudden transition after the expression, a 'second Daniel,' was alone inferior to the late Mr. George F. Cooke of whom he forcibly reminded us, and for which he received, and justly deserved, three distinct rounds of applause.

Mr. Hutton, in Bassanio, did great justice to his part, and this gentleman has elicited talents, since his arrival in Pittsburgh, that proves that at no distant day, he will hold an high and distinguised rank as a Tragedian. Mr. Monier, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Emberton, Mr. Carr and Mr. Jackson all acquitted themselves with great credit, indeed when all performed so well it appears invidious to make distinctions—The whole went off with the greatest eclat, to one of the most fashionable and crowded audiences which have for a long time graced the Boxes of the Pittsburgh Theatre.
